

A painting of a woman in a white dress walking on a long wooden pier extending into a vast, misty landscape under a dramatic, cloudy sky. The scene is bathed in warm, golden light, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. The pier is made of wooden planks and posts, leading the eye from the foreground into the distance. The woman is seen from behind, her white dress flowing in the breeze. The sky is filled with large, billowing clouds in shades of blue, white, and orange. The ground is a mix of brown and blue tones, with a body of water or a very low-lying plain visible in the distance.

The Cuban Five are five Cuban men who are in U.S. prison, serving four life sentences and 75 years collectively, after being wrongly convicted in U.S. federal court in Miami, on June 8, 2001.

They are Gerardo Hernández, Ramon Labañino, Antonio Guerrero, Fernando González and René González.

Help us bring them home

Dear President Obama,

On Mother's Day we call on you to grant clemency and release the Cuban 5. They are: Gerardo Hernández Nordelo, Ramón Labañino Salazar, Antonio Guerrero Rodríguez, Fernando González Llort and René González Sehwerert.

They have been imprisoned for protecting the rights of the Cuban people against terrorist acts.

Their family members have been denied visas for years. On Mother's Day, these men belong home with their mothers, wives, children and loved ones.

"I believe that there is no reason to keep the Cuban Five imprisoned, there were doubts in the U.S. courts and also among human rights organizations in the world. Now, they have been in prison 12 years and I hope that in the near future they will be released to return home."
